

Local and Regional Things to Do

Things to Do in Columbia:

Rock Bridge Memorial State Park- Just minutes from Columbia, Rock Bridge Memorial State Park gives visitors the chance to scramble, hike and bicycle through a scenic environment – and peek into Missouri’s underworld. The park contains some of the most popular hiking trails in the state and also offers solitude while hiking in the Gans Creek Wilderness Area. Check out the natural features of the park along one of eight hiking trails. Visitors can also see a large cave system with its rock bridge, sinkholes, a spring and underground stream at the Devil's Icebox. You can explore Connor's Cave in the light of the opening for a taste of the underground world.

Hike or Bike the Katy Trail- The Katy Trail State Park is the nation’s longest rails-to-trails project. There’s enough variety to keep you interested with tree-shaded areas, open fields, impressive Missouri River bluffs and quaint communities along the way. With frequent trailheads and information about the areas you are visiting, the Katy has enough diversity, beauty and access for anyone.

Shop the District- The must-see cultural epicenter of Columbia featuring eclectic shops, restaurants, museums, galleries, theatres and a “bohemian” or two. Bordered on three sides by college campuses, the District is a continually evolving and vibrant hot spot for live performances, one-of-a-kind specialty shops and owner-operated retail stores. It’s the place to go for exciting nightlife or to meet friends for dinner. On the northside, visit the newly developed North Village Arts District, with new galleries and music venues.

Things to Do Near Columbia:

Arrowrock - The historic village of Arrow Rock is an ideal getaway for a day or an entire weekend. The town, a National Historic Landmark, evokes the warm spirit of the past and is full of friendly people, great restaurants and shops, and fascinating historical attractions.

Begin your journey to the past with a visit to the old-time Country Store, the town's tiny post office, and the interesting period shops on Main Street, better known to locals as "The Boardwalk." Other highlights include the J. Huston Tavern, the oldest continuously operating restaurant west of the Mississippi; the Arrow Rock Station, where diners enjoy a year-round Christmas display; the Hodgepodge, an old-fashioned ice cream shop; and, of course, the Arrow Rock Lyceum Theatre, Missouri's oldest professional regional theatre, producing popular professional theatre from June through September with limited engagements in April, October and November.

The Missouri Department of Natural Resources operates a museum and visitors center in the village that recounts the rich history of the area. The Friends of Arrow Rock, with offices on the Boardwalk, offers tram tours of village attractions, including the National Historic Landmark home of famous American painter and one-time Arrow Rock citizen George Caleb Bingham, and the home and shop of renowned gunsmith John Sites.

Bike and Wine - Explore America's Longest Rails-to-Trails Project by Bike. You will cycle in the Footsteps of Lewis & Clark on the Katy Trail. The Katy Trail follows the meandering Missouri River and passes through the world's breadbasket of agriculture. Enjoy the scenery and solitude of the Lewis & Clark Trail, and Missouri's legendary wine country. Ride just 12 miles to Rocheport, Missouri and relax with a glass of wine and a bluff top view at Les Bourgeois Vineyards.

Perched on a bluff-top 250 feet above the Missouri River and Katy Trail, the bistro offers a spectacular view. Les Bourgeois Vineyards is the third largest winery in Missouri, with more than 90,000 gallons produced and 75,000 gallons sold in 2005. Approximately 50% of this wine is sold through their own retail outlets, with the remaining sold through wholesale distribution.

Herman, Missouri - The City of Hermann was established in 1837 as a German Society settlement.

This quaint city is nestled along the banks of the Missouri River. The City is blessed with original architecture, prize-winning wineries, a variety of shops, a strong industrial community and a host of "down-home" folks.
